

The Buckeye Ranch: My Place

Within our Child Welfare service line, The Buckeye Ranch provides Transitional Age Youth services to help support youth who are aging out of the foster care system.

My Place is a unique program within Transitional Age Youth services, offering transitional housing and support for males and females ages 16 to 21 years old. My Place is a program, not just a placement, with a goal to provide young adults transitioning out of foster care a stable place to learn advanced life skills and grow into the adults they are meant to be in their communities.

Daija'Ne's story:

“Coming to My Place was the best thing I could’ve done ... The staff took the time to help me learn that I could trust adults for the first time and allowed me to be independent. And, when it came time to leave, I knew I’d always have that support. I don’t have parents to lean on, so when I’m in trouble or need advice I call the My Place staff. It finally feels like someone is on my side.”
